

RANDOLPH

Death Record During the Past Week Has Been Unusually High.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Moses Spaulding was held on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. Fraser Metzger officiating, and the remains were taken to Roxbury for interment. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spaulding, the former a son of the deceased, and Mrs. Elroy Spaulding, a step-daughter, were present and accompanied the remains to Roxbury, and then went on to their homes in St. Albans. The same morning one hour earlier, the remains of Mrs. Crane, whose funeral was held on Friday, were taken to Williamstown by W. S. Crane and Miss Katherine Crane, the son and daughter of the deceased, for burial in the family lot there. Another body was taken from here by the same train, Mrs. Susan Stokes, whose death occurred on Friday, to Starksboro, where it was buried in the family lot. There the deceased formerly lived. The remains were accompanied by the son, Felix Stokes, of this place, at whose home the mother died. Seldom have there been as many deaths in a week in town as the last, there having been six in three days.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Joseph Tilson was held from the home of her son, Harry Tilson, on Randolph avenue on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Fraser Metzger officiating, and interment was in the Brintree branch cemetery.

George Ostrye, a student at Middlebury college, has been passing his vacation with his mother, Mrs. Florence Ostrye, on Central street.

Mrs. Alice Bruce went to Lebanon, N. H., Saturday for a few days' stay with her grandson, Robert Bruce.

It is understood that Frederick Dumas, who plays the trombone, has gone with the military company to Fort Ethan Allen, and from there will go with the company, wherever ordered. Mr. Dumas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dumas of this place.

Miss Evelyn Manney went to Boston Saturday to remain for several days with her sister, Miss Bertha Manney. Their mother, Mrs. Manney, has been there for two weeks.

Ernest Packard, a former resident here, but later of New York, is in town, the guest of Mrs. Emily Burroughs for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hollins and daughter came from East Granville Saturday morning, where they had been for several weeks.

E. S. Whitcomb of Bellows Falls was in town on Sunday, the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Whitcomb.

An elaborate program of music was given at the Catholic church on Sunday by the choir, who were assisted by Wayne Hedges, violinist, and Mrs. E. J. O'Brien, soloist. The floral decorations were also beautiful and very profuse.

At the Methodist church the decorations were beautiful, and the music of high order, and the sermon appropriate to the Easter time. At 4 o'clock there was a vesper service, when there was also a nice musical program given by the choir. At the Methodist church special music and a sermon appropriate for the season was given by the pastor. The Baptist church also celebrated the day by beautiful decorations, good music and a sermon appropriate to the day.

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

What This Year's Hats Will Be Like. In the April Woman's Home Companion, Grace Margaret Gould says:

"This season the hats have but little trimming. 'Ostrich feathers, big ribbon bows and quantities of flowers are not used. 'Trimming consists of just a few tiny flowers, a single feather ornament, a narrow ribbon band with a tailored bow or contrasting straw effectively used. 'Colors—well, they are almost anything one could wish, but mostly bright to give an extra gay note to the outfit, if that is possible in these days of bright costumes. 'And this is a combination season. Straw and felt, straw and silks, transparent materials, straw trimmed—anything that is different."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

"Very Good Eddie" at the Barre Opera House April 13.

One of the greatest musical treats of the year will be the engagement at the opera house for one performance, on Friday night, April 13, of "Very Good Eddie," the new musical comedy by Philip Bartholomae and Jerome Kern, which comes here with the notable distinction of an all-year run at the Princess theatre, New York.

The plot of "Very Good Eddie" deals in a bright and humorous way, with the adventures of two newly-wedded pairs, Georgina and Eddie Kettle, who on their marriage day, embark for Albany. On board the Catskill they encounter their friends, Elsie and Percy Darling, who have also just been joined in holy bonds.

Georgina and Percy go ashore, intending to return. But as luck has it, they are left behind, and Elsie, with Eddie, find themselves that night in embarrassing circumstances at a "jay" hotel at some village on the Hudson. There, on the following day, they are followed by the worried Percy and Georgina. It takes some little time to clear up, but in the end all is set right.

The humor of the incidents which occur during the brief sojourn of the four newlyweds at the Rip Van Winkle inn is heightened by the appearance on the scene of Mme. Matropo, a temperamental lady of uncertain age, and other characters, among them a gentleman of foreign birth, named Rougemount, and a third loving couple, Elsie Lilly and Dick Rivers. And to make things complete, we are introduced to the unique clerk of the hotel, Al Cleveland, who now and then suggests an eminent apostle of the grape juice habit, though with hilarious differences.

It is said that the great honors of the performance go to Miss Vallie Martin as the pretty and engaging Elsie Darling to Miss Lottie Brenzel as the spirited and yet majestic Georgina Kettle, to Miss Georgia Harvey as the eccentric Mme. Matropo, to Dave Ferguson as the irrepressible Al Cleveland, and chiefly to that excellent comedian, Burford Hampden, who is the Eddie of the title.

The humor of the play is said to be largely due to the striking contrasts of the diminutive Eddie and his stately bride, who are balanced by the doll-like Elsie and her big, hulking husband—adv.

Williamstown. The class in folk dancing, under the direction of Miss Arlene Jeffords, closed with a public exhibition Thursday evening, April 5. From all sides we hear words of commendation for the happy manner in which the children acquitted themselves and for their teacher, who was able to bring it about in so few lessons. The Village Improvement society will probably open another class as soon as the weather conditions are a little more favorable and continue it during the summer as recreation. Further notice will be given later.

FERTILIZER MIXTURES PREVENT FLIES BREEDING

Experiments by Specialists of U. S. Department of Agriculture Show Possibility of Increasing Value of Barnyard Waste While Eliminating Maggots.

That flies may be prevented from breeding in barnyard manure by adding to the substance the common fertilizer ingredients, calcium cyanamid, acid phosphate, and kainit, has been demonstrated by recent experiments made by the bureau of entomology and chemistry of the U. S. department of agriculture. The valuable feature of the discovery is that by the new treatment the fertilizing value of the manure is increased at the same time that its menace to health is lessened. Under treatments for preventing flies breeding in manure heretofore in use, the fertilizing value of the substance has been decreased or not affected.

The fertilizer ingredient indicated by the experiments to be most effective in preventing of fly maggots in manure is calcium cyanamid, a compound in which nitrogen from the air is fixed by electricity. The investigations showed the value, however, of adding other ingredients to balance properly the chemical effects and to prevent waste of fertilizing elements. Acid phosphate was found to be the supplemental ingredient most needed, but a still better fertilizer was obtained when kainit was used also. The three substances, cyanamid, acid phosphate, and kainit, give a fertilizer complete in itself, containing nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash, as well as lime.

As a result of the experiments, the department's specialists advocate the use of mixtures of one pound of cyanamid and two to four pounds of acid phosphate per four square feet of surface exposed, when the manure is in boxes or pits. When the manure is in open piles the rate of application should be four pounds of cyanamid and four or more pounds of acid phosphate per eight barrels of manure. To be sure of retaining all the fertilizing elements, more than four pounds of acid phosphate are recommended. When kainit is used it may replace a portion of phosphate.

When manure from pits treated as suggested above is applied as fertilizer, the rate should be nine tons per acre to provide the amount of cyanamid calculated to be most effective. Manure treated in excess of two and one-half tons per acre, since it costs about one cent per bushel of manure, and neither lessens nor increases the fertilizing value. The treatment with fertilizer ingredients just evolved costs from one-half cent per bushel of manure when treatment is in pits to 1.8 cents per bushel when the treatment is in open pits. This cost is based on the normal selling prices of the fertilizer ingredients, and is materially lessened in effect by the increased fertilizing efficiency of the treated manure. Not only is the value of the manure increased by the fertilizer ingredients added, but also their presence prevents the waste of certain valuable elements usually lost from untreated manure.

In their most recent experiments in the treatment of manure, the department's specialists tried numerous other substances, including sulphur and various plant infusions. From none of these, however, were the results as satisfactory as those obtained with the use of borax, hellebore, and the fertilizer mixtures. Acting on the data gathered from the groups of experiments carried on since 1913, the specialists recommend the use of borax for preventing the breeding of flies in manure when the latter is not to be put to agricultural use, and the use of either the fertilizer mixture already described or hellebore when the manure is to be used agriculturally. The experiments are described in U. S. department of agriculture bulletin No. 408, by F. C. Cook, of the bureau of chemistry, and R. H. Hutchison, of the bureau of entomology.
